If he were knocking at your door, could you turn him away?

We couldn’t.
But these days, it’s a question that haunts us.
More are coming to our door: 176 to our shelter last year

That’s 45 more than in 2014 ... 59 more than in 2013 ... and 72 more than in 2011. It’s almost 200 percent more than a decade ago.

These people aren’t just looking for a place to stay, they have just escaped being strangled, raped or beaten, the bruises still raw. They are exhausted and terrified.

If we weren’t here, where would they go? Would they sleep on the street? Would they still be alive?

Yet the resources are not coming in as fast as the people in need – and we fear the day we’ll have to turn people away.

We have a plan to ensure all in danger are safe. You can help. See inside for 3 ways you can make a difference.
Director’s Voice

KRISTI HALL-JIRAN

Programs raise awareness, provide safety to more in need

This is the time of year where I spend a fair amount of time reviewing the data and statistics of the prior year. It is so exciting to see how CVIC staff and our many partners continue to go above and beyond to end violence in Greater Grand Forks.

Consider our prevention and education staff, which reached a record 12,807 people last year – that’s one-fifth of the population of Grand Forks! But we would have no presentations to give if organizations didn’t see that violence is a problem and want to do something about it. Organizations such as Grand Forks Public Schools, the University of North Dakota, Altru Health System, and so many more.

And consider the UND police and Grand Forks police and sheriff’s departments, which with CVIC, initiated the highly successful Lethality Assessment Program last year, helping more people in danger to access our safety services (see Page 4).

Investors and ambassadors needed to help meet the need

But such a job well done doesn’t mean we can sit back and relax. On the contrary, what that means is that, as we raise greater awareness of the problem and reach even more people in need, we are in desperate need of funds to meet this increased need.

It is not unusual for me to encounter those in our community who think CVIC is “handled” or “doing just fine” monetarily. It is true that we have grown our programs and budget over the years as we seek to comprehensively deal with violence and to implement strategies to prevent it from happening in the first place.

But preventing violence can’t be accomplished overnight and, in the meantime, more people are in dire need of services to keep them safe, as described on the following pages. This requires resources. Would you consider investing in the lives of people in great need? See some ways you could really help on Page 6.

One of our greatest non-monetary needs right now is for ambassadors to help educate our community about the need for our services and our long-term comprehensive plan to virtually end violence in Greater Grand Forks. It’s a plan that will require an up-front investment, but the payoff in two generations will be nothing short of life- and community-changing for all of us.
“I had nowhere to go. I am thankful for CVIC’s help. I will finally feel safe.”
– CVIC client

Mother and son flee home, call CVIC’s crisis line for help

Huddled in the back of a gas station, Julia* hung up the pay phone receiver and hugged her young son to her body. She kept an eye on the entrance as she whispered for Noah* to stay quiet.

She was sure the clerk could hear her heart pounding. Did he notice her bruised face? Will he let them wait there, just a little longer?

Each minute felt like an eternity, but in 20 minutes, CVIC was there. Julia’s boyfriend hadn’t found them. She and Noah were on their way to safety.

The difference a day can make: safety, relief, confidence

Walking into CVIC’s shelter, Julia and Noah were so tired and a little disoriented. We helped them settle in for their first peaceful night in months.

The next day, it didn’t take Noah long to find the playroom, and his tears turned to squeals of delight. Julia was able to share with us all she had endured, receiving the assurance that we would be there for her. Then the planning began: to apply for a protection order, to find a safe place to live, and to enroll in our counseling group so Julia could keep moving forward with confidence.

OUR GOAL
Every person in Greater Grand Forks who is in danger will be safe

Children often hide in closets or under the bed when violence breaks out at home.

AN INTERVENTION THAT WORKS: Lethality Assessment Program

Since CVIC and local law enforcement initiated a new program in January 2015, our community is safer. Officers have been trained to assess the danger level at the scene of a 911 call – and immediately connect victims in danger with CVIC safety services. This program is proven by national research to be effective. We are seeing it with our own eyes in Grand Forks County.

THE RESULT:
More people are safe in just 1 year

- 35% increase in 24-hour crisis line calls providing help
- 32% increase in families receiving supervised visits and exchanges of kids to stay safe
- 34% increase in people finding safety at our shelter

Shelter services lead to a 60% to 70% drop in re-assault in the months after receiving shelter services
THE COST: of protecting local adults and children in danger

“It requires an investment to be the kind of community that protects its most vulnerable.”

– Jody Thompson, CVIC Board President

We have always known there were hundreds of adults and children right here in Grand Forks who were abused and suffering in silence. They didn’t know that help was available.

Now, through community outreach and the Lethality Assessment Program, more people are getting the help they so desperately need. But, with about one-third more people coming to us for safety services, our costs have risen significantly.

Below are our additional costs of serving 33 percent more people in the coming year.

ADDITIONAL COSTS OF SERVING MORE PEOPLE IN 2016

- Crisis response for 278 more people: $22,796
- 5 safe visits/exchanges for 35 more families: $50,925
- 10 nights of shelter for 45 more people: $42,750
- Total: $116,471

THE GAP: 300+ people could be turned away without additional support

We have a waiting list of 54 adults and 14 children for therapy to help them heal from the trauma, and a list of 21 people for legal representation.

But our goal is to never, ever have a waiting list for safety services. Yet, we cannot keep up with the community need without your support. More than 300 people could go without help if we do not raise the estimated $116,471 needed to provide the services our community asks of us.

Your support will ensure that those who are desperate to be safe will get the help they need.

Will you help someone in danger?

Turn the page to see 3 ways you can help.
Provide a crisis line response to help people stay safe.
Just $82 could literally save a life. You would provide for a crisis response to someone in danger calling our 24-hour crisis line. Just fill out the enclosed envelope or give at cviconline.org.

Increase your giving by 10 percent or more and provide an extra night of shelter.
If 9 people increased their gift of a night of shelter by 10 percent — just $9.50 added to their gift of $95 — one more person could be safe for a night. Just fill out the enclosed envelope or give at cviconline.org.

Join our Dream Maker Society and make dreams come true.
Just $83 per month for five years at the entry Building Hope level will provide shelter and crisis services to keep 20 families safe over the next five years. Just fill out the enclosed envelope or give at cviconline.org.

For more information about giving to CVIC, contact Heidi at 746-0405 or heidi@cviconline.org.

We missed our chance to thank these supporters

We inadvertently left out a gift made by Lonnie and Pam Laffen in a previous listing of supporters. We would like to thank Lonnie and Pam for their generous gift of $1,000 to support our services.

Also, if we missed you in this issue’s listing, please accept our sincere apologies and let us know. We will correct our error in our next issue. Thank you!
